

Dear sir/madam,

The French National Institute for Agricultural Research (INRA) organizes a survey of Master students at an international level. The objective is to better understand why students decide to complete a PhD (or not), to measure the level of awareness and attractiveness of research careers for young scientists and to investigate whether research institutes like INRA are known by master students. The survey is send to major master degrees in a range of countries.

This survey is anonymous and available online at :

Survey

or

<http://enquete.libop.net/enquete/index.php?idenquete=577>

Your participation to this survey will be of great help and we thank you in advance for it.

Yours sincerely

D. Bourguet, C. Caranta, F. Héquet et M. Voltz